REMEMBERING CAMILLE

Bay artist Elizabeth Veglia's 14-foot diameter tile mosaic replica of the cyclonic energy of Hurricane Camille.

Bay St. Louis artist Elizabeth Veglia explains the design of her tile mosaic artwork for the Hurricane Camille Memorial as "Hurricane Hunter" Master Sgt. Lee Snyder places tiles on the work. Snyder and fellow Hurricane Hunters Lt. Col. Robert Katz and Master Sgt. Roy Cloud got involved with the project when Veglia approached them for their input.

Bay artist working on Camille Memorial with help of famed 'Hurricane Hunters'

"Hurricanes all look the same from the sky," according to Master Sgt. Lee Snyder of the famed "Hurricane Hunters" stationed at Keesler Air Force Base. But they vary in force, size and the effect they have on people's lives. And none on record have inflicted as much massive devastation on the Mississippi Gulf Coast as Hurricane Camille.

That's why Snyder and fellow Hunters Lt. Col. Robert Katz and Master Sgt. Roy

Cloud have joined with Bay St. Louis artist Elizabeth Veglia to create a tile mosaic replica of Camille as part of a memorial to those who died in the destruction.

Julia Guice, chairwoman of the Hurricane Camille Memorial Commission, said Veglia was an easy choice for the project.

"I was very acquainted with her work before, and she was the logical one to do it," Guice said from Veglia's North Second Street studio

Main Street project to preserve tradition

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Future housing in Bay St. Louis will look to the past for inspiration.

The fate of at least one of the sixteen lots on the block of Main Street and backing onto St. John is in the hands of John P. Bolian, owner of JB Design-Build, who has been designing and building custom houses in the area since 1985. Bolian said that as far as he knows all sixteen lots will be residences with tight restrictions on the style of their design. The house Bolian is currently building is going to be a 3,000 sq. ft., two story Acadian style home with a porch all the way across the front. The house will take five or six months to complete. He said that all the houses built will be in some traditional design to preserve the ambiance of the existing neighborhood.

Workers for JB Design-Build, owned by John P. Bolian, do preliminary work on a custom-designed house being built on Main Street in Bay St. Louis. Building in the area is tightly restricted.

Kingston trial to begin on Monday

BY GEOFF BELCHER
News Editor

Jury selection is expected to begin Monday in Hancock Circuit Court in the murder trial of Patricia Ann Kingston.

Kingston, then a 59-year-old Bay St. Louis Antiques dealer, was arrested in March 1999 for her alleged involvement in the shooting death of her husband, 79-year-old Herman Cowan.

Cowan's fully-clothed decomposed body was found stuffed in a trunk in Bayou LaCroix on Feb. 28, 1999. He had apparently died from a single .22-caliber gunshot to the back of the head.

He had been missing since August 1998. Police said shortly after Kingston's arrest that evidence led them to believe that Cowan had been dead since that time.

Attack of the giant jellyfish

ECHO STAFF REPORT

It's like something out of a science fiction movie: Giant jellyfish from another ocean have swarmed into the Gulf of Mexico and Mississippi Sound, choking out other sea life and threatening the livelihoods of hundreds of locals.

Scores of the phyllorhiza punctata, a large species of jellyfish native to the waters of the Pacific around Australia, are washing up on the shores of the Bay of St. Louis, and getting tangled in the nets of area shrimpers.

State's leaders give perspectives on future higher education funding

Mississippi Institutions of Higher Learning will open Fall 2000 classes with $6.2 million less than they had in Fall 1999. The Governor and the top legislative officials recently shared their views of future funding for the eight public universities.

Tom Layzell, Higher Education Commissioner, expressed appreciation for the time and effort of the leaders.

"Governor Ronnie Musgrove, Lt. Governor Amy Tuck and House Speaker Tim Ford each took time to share their perspectives with us on the state funding slowdown and where higher education fits in the priorities."

Mississippi is fortunate that its leaders are well aware of the importance of a strong educational system, pre-K through graduate school.

We remain optimistic that higher education will receive strong support from the leadership in the days ahead," Layzell said.

Musgrove stated that higher education is a priority. "Now, with the teacher pay bill on track, it's time for all of us to devote an equal measure of time and energy to focus on higher education."

Tuck discussed the importance of education to the economy.

"The better job we do with education, the better our citizens are prepared to support economic growth and the more likely that growth is to occur," Tuck said.

House Speaker Ford commented on the quality of Mississippi higher education.

"Today's job arena demands a college degree if one is to provide adequately for his or her family. The university community is doing a superb job of meeting this challenge," Ford said.

Their columns are published in the summer education digest, the board's newsletter, and can be found on the board's web page at www.ihi.state.ms.us by clicking on Columns.

NERVE PRESSURE

Spinal nerve pressure caused by misaligned vertebrae interferes with the normal flow of nerve energy from the brain to the organs and tissues of the body.

This nerve pressure can be likened to the pressure produced by a blood pressure cuff on the arm. The pressure can be severe and cause intense pain or it can be so slight it only produces a slight weakness or occasional numbness in the arm or hand.

Regardless of what you might do for the problem, such as taking drugs to thin blood or dilate blood vessels to increase circulation or applying heat, massage, exercise, thinking good thoughts, etc., unless the pressure is removed, the arm and hand cannot function normally.

Removing causes rather than treating symptoms is what chiropractic is all about.

Annual Steak & Steak Dinner and Charity Auction a success

On July 18, the Boys & Girls Clubs of the Gulf Coast held its 9th Annual Steak & Steak Dinner and Charity Auction.

The annual fund raiser, in the past known as the Steak & Burger Dinner, is a major fund raiser for the organization that gives club members a chance to dine and interact with community leaders.

The dinner raised funds to benefit over 2,500 Boys & Girls Clubs members in South Mississippi.

This year's event is expected to net over $117,000 that goes towards costs associated with operations, programming and outreach services for the club's eight units located throughout Biloxi, Gulfport, Pass Christian and Picayune.

Programs offered at club facilities foster successful character development in youth ages 6-18.

Chairing this year's event was Janice Young with co-chair D'Auby Schiel. Tom Brosig, president and CEO of Park Place Entertainment and guest speaker at last year's dinner, introduced this year's guest speaker, Steve McNair, quarterback for the Tennessee Titans.

Emcee Dave Elliot of WLOX-TV announced the "White Team," captained by D'Auby Schiel and Ann Bowden-Hollis, as the Top Sales Team and Senator Tommy Gollott, for the 8th consecutive year, as the Top Salesperson. Each year, board members sell sponsorships ranging from $100 for an individual to $4,000 for a platinum level.

Along with the dinner a charity auction was held which included a silent auction and a live auction with guest auctioneer Reed Guice.

For the fifth year in a row, the event was sponsored by Outback Steakhouse.

OPINION

"CUEVAS" QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

P reparations are under way for the Mississippi Coastal Cleanup scheduled for Saturday, September 16.

Hancock County has been participating in the annual beach cleanup since its beginning and even before.

The Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee is coordinating the efforts in Hancock County and will once again have supplies for the big day.

As usual, groups, organizations, families, and individuals interested in helping can contact the chamber's office at 467-9048.

This is a volunteer effort, and the overall effort is sponsored by the Mississippi Marine Debris Task Force which has representatives from across the Coast. Lauren Thompson, Mississippi Department of Marine Resources, is the group's chair.

Members from Hancock County include myself, Betsy Ashman, Darlene Underwood and Sue Busby.

In Hancock County our cleanups in prior years have also extended to areas other than just the beachfront.

Emphasis this year across the three coastal counties will include all rivers, canals, bayous and beachfront, really every waterway.

The Mississippi Coastal Cleanup is affiliated with the International Coastal Cleanup - the world's largest cleanup effort on behalf of the marine environment.

Debris which ends up in our ditches, canals, bayous and rivers eventually land in the bay and then our Gulf waters.

More and more folks are becoming concerned about our environment, and this is very good.

We can still use more groups, organizations, etc. during our cleanups, and everyone is welcomed.

We will be telling you more about the cleanup as the time nears.

It was not too many years ago that Mississippi Southern was referred to as just a teachers' college.

That referral sure has changed as the University of Southern Mississippi has moved into the 'big time' of higher learning.

Of particular interest to us in Hancock County is the field of polymer science (plastics), and USM is rated as one of the top universities in the nation in that field. We have GE Plastics and Welman's who specialize in that type of industry, along with support industries.

Just on Friday, USM moved into a new field very much to the desire of the U.S. Navy at the John C. Stennis Space Center, and that is the university's hydrographic science program, a master's degree program that prepares students to survey and chart of the world's oceans.

The hydrography program is a partnership between the U.S. Navy and USM at the Stennis Space Center, and this is great, because the Navy really has the largest employment enrolled at the center located in Hancock County.

Also of great importance is the fact that Stennis has become a center for naval hydrography with both the Naval Meteorology and Oceanography Command, headquarters of the Navy's meteorology and oceanography community; and the command's subunit, the Naval Oceanographic Office located at the test site.

Many good things are happening in our state, and the more educational opportunity available for our residents the better off we will be in the years to come.

Simple truths about the budget and debt

There is still no surplus excluding trust funds. According to the "Monthly Treasury Statement" of the U.S. Department of the Treasury, for the first nine months of Fiscal Year 2000 (October 1999 through June 2000), there is a "cumulative surplus" of $176.6 billion.

However, this cumulative surplus consists of trust fund surpluses totaling $187.8 billion minus a federal fund deficit of $11.2 billion.

Fiscal Year 2000 trust fund surpluses through nine months include:

Social Security Old-Age and Survivors Insurance trust fund, $115.5 billion;

Social Security Disability Insurance trust fund, $18 billion;

Medicare Hospital Insurance trust fund (on-budget), $23.4 billion;

Federal Employees

IN CONGRESS

By Representative Gene Taylor

Retirement trust fund (on-budget), $13.4 billion;

Military Retirement trust fund (on-budget), $10.6 billion.

The federal debt is still growing. According to the U.S. Bureau of the Public Debt, as of June 30, 2000, the Public Debt was $5.686 trillion. The Public Debt on Sept. 30, 1999, the end of Fiscal Year 1999, was $5.656 trillion.

During the first nine months of Fiscal Year 2000, the Public Debt has increased by $30 billion. The debt increased $47 billion in the 12-months form June 30, 1999, to June 30, 2000.

The federal trust funds hold more than $2 trillion in public debt securities that must be repaid in the future. The trust fund holdings include $878 billion in the Social Security Old-Age and Survivors trust fund, $505 billion in the Federal Employees retirement trust fund, $162 billion in the Medicare hospital insurance trust fund, $154 billion in the Military Retirement trust fund, and $110 billion in the Social Security Disability trust fund.

About one-fifth of federal outlays are spent on interest on the debt.

In the first nine months of fiscal Year 2000, the Department of the Treasury reported that $302.2 billion was spent on interest on the Public Debt, which is 22 percent of all federal outlays.

Nine months of social Security Old-Age and Survivors benefits totaled $259.2 billion.

Social Security disability ($40.4 billion) and SSI ($25.5 billion) payments and administrative costs pushed total Social Security Administration outlays to $331.9 billion. Defense military outlays totaled $212.5 billion, $89.7 billion less than interest outlays. Medicare outlays totaled $166.4 billion in nine months, $135.8 billion less than interest outlays.

Gaming magnate attracts trouble

Gaming magnate Jack Binion whose Horseshoe Tunica is reputedly Mississippi's most profitable casino operation, has run into a bit of trouble up in Illinois where the state gaming board has ruled him ethically unfit to enter the Chicago-area market.

Fiddle faddle, contends Binion's Mississippi attorney, former State Sen. Ben Stone of Gulfport, who has known, and represented, the Las Vegas-based gambling operator since 1994 when he put his roots down in Tunica County.

For various reasons, Stone avers, Binion has not made a move to break into the Mississippi Gulf Coast market, content to reap the lucrative trade that comes to his Tunica spot. Paradoxically, 10 years ago Tunica was America's poorest county.

From figures I've gotten from a national gaming analyst, it is evident Binion's Horseshoe has done quite well in Tunica, better than his bigger competitors.

For the first quarter of 2000, the industry gaming analyst says, Horseshoe Tunica took in $65 million, of which it earned a whopping $24 million before federal taxes and corporate expense.

Relatively, Binion's casino earnings in Tunica are higher than his bigger competitors, particularly the much larger Tunica Grand.

Binion also has a casino in neighboring Louisiana, at Bossier City (Shreveport) which the analyst said had a first quarter gross equal to the Tunica operation, but had $6 million less earnings.

More later about Binion's Louisiana connection.

In Illinois, Binion's $629 million bid to crack the lucrative Chicago-area gambling market was unanimously rejected by the state Gaming Board on July 2 after the Chicago Tribune had reported the board staff found a "trail of poor business practices, regulatory violations and financial malpractice."

The Illinois board won't release its formal reasons for barring Binion from Illinois casino operations for several days. He is then expected to appeal it to a law judge, and the to court.

His own reaction to the Illinois ruling, said Stone, Binion's Mississippi attorney, was one of shock. "I'm taken aback by it," he said, "I'm sure there's absolutely nothing to it."

Binion's Horseshoe Gaming early this year was given a tentative license by the Illinois Gaming Board to operate in Joliet, Ill., a move which later drew hot rebuke from Republican Gov. George Ryan, and resulted in resignation of the board's chairman.

Binion had first been licensed by the Mississippi Gaming Commission Sept. 13, 1994, renewed in September, 1996, again in October, 1998, and is now up for renewal in October, 2001.

If it wanted to, in light of the Illinois action, the Mississippi commission before Binion's next renewal comes up could revisit Binion's fitness to operate in this state. Stone doesn't think that will happen.

"We're looking into it," said Bill Gresham of Indianola, a member of the Mississippi Gaming Commission. "I couldn't say now that we will go beyond that," he added.

In both Louisiana and Nevada where Binion also operates, gaming authorities are already reviewing his licenses.

Binion, according to a team of Chicago Tribune investigative reporters who have been on his case for several months, came under scrutiny of the celebrated federal grand jury probe (and later conviction) of colorful former Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards for racketeering and extortion involving gaming licenses in that state.

The Tribune reported that Binion had been called to testify before the grand jury, but took the Fifth Amendment. Binion was not named in any of the indictments in the Edwards' case, although an FBI investigator urged he be given further review.

Further, the Tribune investigative team found that to win a license in Louisiana in 1993, Binion had promised to give 70 per cent of the casino's supply contracts to firms run by minorities, then used minority-fronted shell companies to funnel business to white-run firms.

In what could be seen as a Binion carrot tossed to Mississippi's African-American community, the high-riding Las Vegas gambling magnate recently contributed $100,000 to endow a chair in political science at Tougaloo College named for U.S. Rep. Bennie Thompson.

Coincidentally, Thompson represents the black-majority 2nd Congressional District in which Tunica and Binion's casino are located.

Stone, the former state senator and Binion attorney here, happens to be a member of the Mississippi Ethics Commission, a spot he has held since 1980 by appointment of lieutenant-governors starting with Brad Dye. His term will be up for reappointment at the end of this year.

Besides Binion's Horseshoe Tunica, Stone also represents some other casinos, principally MGM's Beau Rivage in Biloxi.

A major function of the state Ethics Commission is to investigate and determine conflicts of interest involving public officials.

Familiar faces in victory lane at MMP

By Melvin Breland

Friday and Saturday night's feature winners were mostly familiar faces at the Mississippi Motorsports Park clay oval in Pass Christian.

Buddy Taylor was the only first time winner after he picked up the win in the Pure Street division.

Phil Howard made Taylor work for his feature win, but had to settle for the runner-up spot. Robert Echols finished third after Billy Weaver failed to pass tech inspection.

Lonnie Scarbrough continues to dominate the Street Stock division as he claimed another easy feature win. Joey Pilgrim chased Scarbrough to the checkers, but could not make a serious challenge for the lead.

Scarbrough and Pilgrim were both heat race winners in earlier action. Bobby Busby finished third behind Pilgrim in the feature.

Ronald Parker, filling in for his brother Donald, was impressive in winning both heat and feature races in the Pro Stock class.

Although Parker is a veteran driver with many wins, this was his first of the season at MMP.

Parker held off another heat winner, Ronnie Roberts, to secure the win. Wallace Allen finished in the third spot over Chuckie Smith to make the Pro Stock feature one of the most competitive races of the night.

Heat winner Bryan Foy was another green-to-checkers winner in the Dixie Sportsman feature. Rusty Cooper, runner-up in both races, kept constant pressure on Foy, but could not find an opening to move into the lead. Tracy Brown finished third with Randy Deschamp in fourth.

Keith Miller added another late Model feature win to his ever-growing list by going on a green-to-checkers run.

Miller led the 13-car field to the green and never looked back as he picked up a comfortable win over the field. Miller seems to have found the right combination for the MMP oval as he has become the man to beat of late.

Ricky Hankins, who has been the dominant factor in this class for quite a while, could only manage a second place finish.

Camp Holley has an outstanding run to claim a solid third over K. I. Davis and Randy Little.

Shane Morgan was another convincing winner as he blistered the MMP oval in the Mini-Sprint feature.

Morgan moved out to a comfortable lead in the 20-car field, with Friday night's feature winner, Terry Coddington, giving chase.

Jeff Ray, Ric Barrgre and Brent Gonzales rounded out the top five in Saturday night's feature.

Coddington, Morgan, Westley Young, Emmett Gulsby and Joshua Grimes were all heat race winners over the two-night program.

Heat winner Kalif Sellier held off a hard-charging Ron Tubbs to claim Friday night's Modified Outlaw feature. Ben Stephens finished third in the feature over Nick Sellier.

Michael Taylor won the Mini sportsman feature over heat winner Pumpkin Taylor. Robert Wheat won both heat and feature races in the Mini Stock class.

Wildcats report Aug. 8 for preseason drills

Pearl River Community College's 2000 Wildcat football team reports for preseason conditioning tests and physicals in Poplarville Tuesday, Aug. 8, to kick off head coach Keith Daniels' sixth season with the Wildcats.

The Wildcats begin three-day workouts the following day. Four offensive and six defensive starters return this season in hopes of bettering the Wildcats' disappointing 3-7 campaign a year ago. Seventy-plus players are expected to report.

Daniels said the Wildcats begin seven days of three-day workouts Tuesday, Aug. 8. The three-a-days conclude Tuesday, Aug. 15. Full semester classes begin Wednesday, Aug. 16.

Daniels is optimistic heading into the preseason.

"Well be inexperienced on both sides of the ball, but I have a very good feeling about this team. The character, talent, and hard-work ethic we have in our new and returning players should compensate for any inexperience we may have," Daniels said. "Our 10 returning starters have matured into solid leaders of the last year and I feel our freshman players will mix well with all of our returning people."

Daniels and his staff will trim their roster to the MACJC's 55-player limit by the time PRCC opens its season in Poplarville Thursday, Aug. 31, against Mississippi Delta.

But a brand new rule will allow MACJC schools an additional, 10 "practice only" players.

"That is a good thing for our league," Daniels said. "Even though you are still restricted to a 55-player roster, you can have 10 more non-roster players that can practice with the team and learn a lot about Wildcat football over the next year."

"Those will be marginal players that didn't quite make the final cut, but most of them will make our official roster next year."

PRCC's annual "Meet the Wildcats Night" is set for Tuesday, Aug. 29, in M.R. White Coliseum beginning at 7:30 p.m.

All football players, support staff, men's and women's soccer players, cheerleaders, members of the "Spirit of the River" marching band and "String of Pearls" dance team will be recognized. The public is invited.

The Wildcats open their season with four straight Thursday-night games, beginning with Mississippi Delta. Back-to-back road games follow against Coahoma in Clarksdale and Holmes in Goodman, then Hinds visits on Sept. 21.

Five straight Saturday games follow: Jones at Ellisville Sept. 30, Southwest at Poplarville Oct. 7, Copiah-Lincoln at Wesson Oct. 14, Mississippi Gulf Coast at Perkinston Oct. 21, and Northeast for homecoming Oct. 28. PRCC closes out the regular season against division foe East Central Thursday, Nov. 2.

Free white-flowering dogwood trees available

Ten free white-flowering dogwood trees will be given to each person who joins The National Arbor Day Foundation during August 2000. The free trees are part of the nonprofit Foundation's Trees for America campaign. "The white-flowering dogwoods will add year-round beauty to your home and neighborhood," John Rosenow, the Foundation's president, said. "Dogwoods have showy spring flowers, scarlet autumn foliage, and red berries which attract songbirds all winter."

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting between October 15 and December 10 with enclosed planting instructions. The six to twelve inch trees are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free of charge.

Members also receive a subscription to the Foundation's colorful bimonthly publication, Arbor Day, and The Tree Book with information about tree-planting and care.

To receive the trees, send a $10 membership contribution to: Ten Dogwoods, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Avenue, Nebraska City, NE 68410, by August 31.

Camille -- memorial

Thursday. "We're very fortunate along the Gulf Coast to have a person, an artist, of her stature."

Once Veglia was tapped for the project, Guice said, the pair went to see the experts -- the Hurricane Hunters -- to get their perspectives on what the piece should look like.

"And they were so taken with the project, they wanted to participate," Guice said.

Veglia said the design of the mosaic is based on the cyclonic form of the hurricane as seen from a satellite, "reinterpreted to capture the power, energy and emotional impact this image has on all residents of the Gulf Coast."

"Basically, what you have here is the horizontal depiction of everything," Snyder said. "The energy that feeds the eye, the source, of the hurricane."

"The mosaic is 14 feet in diameter and ... will be the pool water flows into," Veglia said. "All the names of the victims of Hurricane Camille will be carved into the front part in granite."

According to a description of the memorial in a statement released by the Memorial Commission, "Set in the footprint of the original Church of the Redeemer, the Hurricane Camille Memorial contains ... a memorial wall and fountain located in the apse of the old demolished church. The memorial wall and fountain is a low wall semi-circular in plan. The interior face of the wall is sloped back to reflect the sky and allow a continuous curtain of water to flow from the top and down over the surface. This surface of polished granite will be etched with the names of the 131 victims from the three coastal counties killed in the storm. In the center of the semi-circle is a disk depressed into the ground and covered with a thin layer of water flowing down from the memorial wall."

The project was announced last Aug. 17, the 30th anniversary of Camille. Veglia said the design of the mosaic was based on satellite imagery of Hurricane Helena provided by the Hunters and Keesler Air Force Base.

Snyder, Katz and Cloud worked Thursday from Veglia's design to help her place tiles cut by her friend Mary Wager.

The Hurricane Hunters are the only flying unit in the world who actually fly into the eye of a hurricane to measure and record data in order to help predict the direction, power and severity of the storm.

"We really enjoy what we do," Cloud said Thursday. "We feel like we're on a humanitarian mission, saving a lot of lives. ... Whenever there's a hurricane that's threat to land, we'll stay in it 24 hours a day until it either hits or dissipates."

Snyder said the unit started in the late 1940s doing reconnaissance for enemy subs and had weather, but began flying hurricanes -- literally -- on a dare.

"(A group of pilots) was sitting around talking about it, and one guy said he could do it and they bet that he couldn't. ... They must have talked to the wrong guy, because the next day he took them up."

"This is our legacy -- we tell people 'Your career started on a bar bet.'"

The unit moved from a succession of air bases around the world before settling at Keesler in 1973.

Snyder is the only man still in the unit who flew in Hurricane Camille.

"My eighth flight in an airplane -- not as a pilot, but just on a crew -- was into this thing right here," he said, pointing at Veglia's mosaic.

The memorial will be dedicated in a special ceremony on Camille's 31st anniversary, Aug. 17, at 5:30 p.m. at the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer in Biloxi.

Donations may still be made to the project, payable to Hurricane Camille Memorial Wall, Church of the Redeemer, 610 Water Street, Biloxi, Ms. 39530.

Firetower -- subdivisions

Commission attorney John Scaife said both subdivisions would be governed by their own protective covenants, which would prohibit mobile homes and require each home to contain a minimum of 1,500-square feet.

Scaife said the Kiln Fire and Water District would extend water to the subdivisions, but Health Department approval on individual septic tanks would be required before anyone can get a permit to begin building. The developer would also be required to put in roads and utilities to both subdivisions.

There was some concern by nearby residents, who said they had hoped larger homes would be built, but all five Commissioners approved the preliminary plans.

In other business, David Malley was granted a special exception and given site plan approval to construct a mini-storage warehouse and RV storage at the corner of Kapalama Drive and Tina Ladner/Ed. Paye Road at the rear of Diamondhead.

James L. Moak was granted a variance from rear setbacks to place an elevated trailer on the corner of Arkansas and Missouri Streets in Shoreline Park. The trailer must be hooked up to the sewerage system.

At its July 20th recessed meeting, the Commission acted on a number of trailer applications, which require conditional approval.

Anna Van Nevel received approval to place a mobile home on Quilman Street in Bayside Park.

Thomas LaFontaine was given approval to place a mobile home on Copiah Street in Bayside Park.

Bobby McAlister received approval to place a mobile home at 6201 W. Hinds Street in Bayside Park.

The Hancock Water and Sewer District is currently extending the sewerage system to the subdivision off U.S. Hwy.

90.

Terry Ladner received site approval and a conditional use to erect a boat storage marina on Ann Street in Lakeshore.

Crafton Communications received site approval and a conditional use to erect a new 270-foot-high, self-supporting communications tower off Hwy. 90 in Pearlinton.

Another request for a communications tower was denied. Faulk & Foster wanted permission to erect a 320-foot-high tower south of Interstate 10 in the NASA buffer zone, but Commissioners said the developer would have to buy more land in order to expand the fall area in the event the tower might topple over.

Jellyfish -- swarm

the entire Coast from Louisiana to Florida, and marine scientists like those at Dauphin Island Sea Lab in Alabama are working to confirm theories on the jellyfish migration to the area and to discover a method of dealing with the problem.

The species is known to have migrated into the south Caribbean in the late 1960s by hitching a ride on ship hulls as tiny larvae. Now they've moved into the Mississippi Sound and are threatening the local economy.

The dense population of the jellyfish is rapidly consuming microscopic plants and larvae such as those of shrimp, crabs and oysters, and are filling the nets and fouling the engines of local shrimpers.

The shrimp harvest in the Sound, particularly around the southern edge of Hancock County, has already been severely affected.

Currently, marine experts are stumped on how to solve the problem. Dauphin Island scientist William Graham told reporters last week that the invertebrates may die out during the winter but if they come back, the local ecosystem could be severely threatened.

Division of Tourism releases study report

Mississippi Tourism Development, a division of the Mississippi Department of Economic and Community Development in partnership with D.K. Shifflet & Associates, has released its latest in a series of tourism reports, Mississippi 1998 Overnight Leisure Profile.

The purpose of the report was to provide a comprehensive analysis of the domestic travel market for Mississippi.

The report highlights key demographic and travel behavior characteristics of Mississippi's domestic overnight leisure travelers with a comparison to the national average and to each of Mississippi's competing destinations.

Results of the report will assist the Division plan strategically for the future by providing actionable information to guide marketing and advertising programs.

"Tourism is a tremendous economic catalyst to the state," said Darienne Wilson, director, Tourism Development.

"Good, solid research provides the state, as well as the industry, increased visibility. This report will allow us to optimize our marketing dollars by focusing on our key markets."

Key Survey Highlights:

• In 1998, 32 million people visited Mississippi. Of the total, 12 million came for one day, 10 million were business travelers and 10 million were on vacation.

• The average visitor to Mississippi was 46 years old.

• Nearly one-third (32 percent) of the visitors were 55 or older.

• Seventeen percent of all leisure travelers were retired.

• Couples (39 percent), families (24 percent), and adults traveling alone (21 percent) were the top three travel party "segments."

• About 89 percent of these overnight leisure travel parties used their private automobile.

• Mississippi was a regional destination with almost half (49 percent) of overnight leisure visitors traveling less than 250 miles one-way.

• The average one-way distance was 352 miles by the overnight visitors.

Taking early retirement? Brush up on rule 72(t)

If you've ever thought about retiring early, then you know there's one major concern you'll need to address: money. Will you have enough? And where will it come from?

Barring a disability, you can't start collecting Social Security until you're 62. When you retire early, it would be extremely helpful if you had a source of income to tide you over until you reach that age.

But if you tap into your IRA or 401(k) before you're 59 1/2, won't you have to pay a 10 percent penalty on the distributions you take out?

Not necessarily. According to Section 72(t) of the Internal Revenue Code, you may be able to tap into your IRA or 401(k) before age 59-1/2 and still avoid the penalty. How? By taking the funds in a series of "substantially equal periodic payments."

This somewhat "jargony" phrase simply means you've got to withdraw about the same amount of money at least once a year. You have to make these withdrawals for at least five years, or until you've reached age 59-1/2, whichever is longer.

So, for example, if you start taking these payments at age 50, you'll need to continue them until you're 59-1/2. If you don't start taking the payments until you're 57, you have to keep going until you're 62.

How much can you withdraw? Unfortunately, you can't just choose the amount you think you'll need. Typically, IRS regulations require that the size of the payments be based on your life expectancy - or on the joint life expectancy of you and your beneficiary - and a given interest rate.

Clearly, it's a good thing to avoid the 10 percent penalty, which could amount to thousands of dollars over time.

Nonetheless, just because you can access your IRA or 401(k) without paying a penalty doesn't mean you should. Why?

For one thing, even though your withdrawals may not incur any penalties, they will trigger income taxes. This could be especially costly if your tax bracket doesn't drop in retirement.

Even more importantly, your IRA or 401(k) provides tax-deferred growth for your retirement savings. The longer you leave these funds alone, the greater your accumulation will be.

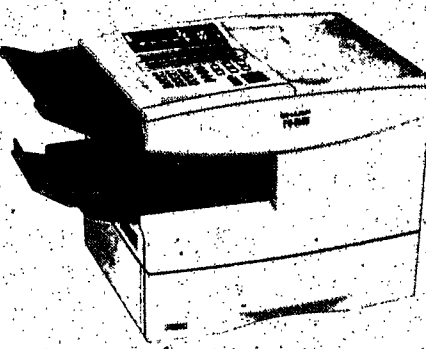

That added growth will be very helpful later on in your retirement, when you really do need the money.

One more point to consider: When you have a 401(k), you still have to separate from employment before you can take money out, even using the Section 72(t) provision. With an IRA, you can start making 72(t) withdrawals at any time.

In any case, weigh your decision carefully. You worked long and hard to build up your IRA or 401(k). Don't be in a hurry to dismantle them.

THE SKY'S THE LIMIT

Hancock student loves to fly, and it shows

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

What does retired Lockheed Martin Engineering Change Manager, Tom Bonser have in common with a 15-year-old Hancock High School Sophomore... their love of flying, or more specifically, their love of soaring, which recently took the pair on a journey to The International Vintage Sailplane Meet in Elmira, New York, which took place July 1-9.

The partnership actually began more than two years ago at Stennis International Airport when Sky Powers, then 13, ventured out to take a glider ride. After that, Sky spent much of his free time at the airport, doing any odd jobs he could just to be near the planes. Soon he began to help in the soaring operation at the airport and struck up a friendship with Bonser, who had just become part owner in a 1950 Schweizer #14, a single place glider in need of restoration.

In exchange for helping with the soaring, Sky got glider rides and with the help of old family friend, Michael Shallbetter and Jim Culp he was able to solo just after his 14th birthday. He was hooked on aviation and now plans a career in the industry. He has about 50 hours and 118 dropped it and put a big dent in it.

"I felt really bad and decided that I should do something to help with the restoration so I started working on it," said Powers. "I was just going to do a little, but once I started, I couldn't stop... now I am a third owner in the plane."

The restoration ended up taking the better part of two years with Sky and Bonser doing the work when they could.

"But the Sailplane meet set a deadline for us," said Powers.

The pair spent the afternoon before departure loading up Bonser's van and getting the glider on a trailer for safe transport for the 3 day trip.

After a good night's sleep the two went out to Harris Hill Park in Big Flats, just outside of Elmira where the meet was being held. The location has long been a favorite soaring site dating back to the 1930's because of the ridges which run through the area, enhancing thermal activity. In the 30's soaring sites faced most of the area's prevailing winds and take-off locations were selected daily to face the predicted winds. Gliders were launched by bungee cord into the wind so pilots could soar in the upward deflected air along the ridges or glide over the valley to seek thermal updrafts. Now days the gliders are towed up with power planes.

"The soaring there is spectacular," said Powers. "About 900 feet per minute lift all over... it was very challenging because the mountainous terrain adds a whole other dimension."

Besides flying in their own glider, the pair were able to try other vintage aircraft and generally went up at least twice a day.

"What I liked best was all the people that I met, especially the competitive pilots," said Powers. "Weather permitting, they would participate in any number of contests like a distance flight and would fly 90 miles or more before landing, where crews would pick them up and trailer them back to the airport."

As an extra added bonus to the trip, the pair won a trophy for their restoration of the Schweizer.

"I was most surprised by the award," said Powers. "Most people knew about their awards ahead of time but I had no idea that we were winning anything... I was surprised and proud."

Powers is the son of Will Powers and Judith McCall, both of Bay St. Louis.

'Really? Well, we had an inch just the other day'

Yesterday, we could see black rain clouds to our north and hear the boom of thunder. Someone back there was getting rain, but it wasn't us.

We even got a little of the shading associated with the dark clouds and the temperature dropped down to the lower eighties. But no rain. It's nice to get cooled off by the clouds, but we really need their water.

This kind of thing, showers everywhere but here, has been going on for some time. It happened last weekend and the weekend before.

When I complain to someone in Picayune or Saucier about our not getting any rain, they start giving me a long story of the inch or so of rain they had

by Paul Estronza La Violette
laviolet@mail.datasync.com

had. Somehow that doesn't make me feel any better.

When you get down to actual measurements, even the rains they've been having were just barely enough to water a few petunias; they probably need a lot more.

All along the Coast, we could use some good, heavy, last for an afternoon, soaking deep in the ground, rain.

We didn't get the normal spring rains this year. The lack of water at that critical growing time hurt; you can see the effects in the poor showings and colors of the crepe myrtles around town.

Now it's summer, the time of year when about all we can expect are scattered showers that result from afternoon heating.

In normal years, this happens often enough that all of us get close to the watering we need. This year, we're not even getting that.

What we have been getting lately makes a joke of the term "scattered showers". Usually someone, somewhere gets an inch or so in a short time, in a small area, that promptly runs off. It's a little like paying one creditor out of ten and expect the other nine to feel satisfied.

If all of this sounds like I'm unhappy, I am. I've been sitting on the porch working on my laptop, with Jennie lying just behind the lounge and Holly lying on the end of the porch looking for cicadas to eat. In front of us, the sprinkler is going full force, its rhythmic swing sweeping slowly back and forth on the lawn.

It's a soothing sound that normally would produce a comforting relaxing feeling, except for the fact that I know I'm going to have to move it in a few moments and what I can see through the sweep of the sprinkler's water.

About five or eight miles out in the Sound I can see a long line of clouds stretched across, the water from east to west. The clouds are heavy with water. In three places in the line, rain is falling, with one of these dropping fairly heavy amounts of water.

The whole line of clouds and these rain cells haven't moved in the hour I've been sitting here. Yes, I am unhappy.

It's said that, when faced with bad weather in the Battle of the Bulge, Patton ordered his chaplain to write a prayer for good weather. I think we need a prayer for bad weather. If I wrote one, it would go something like this:

"God, send us some rain!"

"God, Don't send the namby-pamby rain. Send the rain that comes in big drops. Cold drops. Drops that will hit the ground with a wallop, that will stir the dust. Drops that fill buckets in seconds! Drops that we can watch come walking down the road toward us, smacking the ground, bringing with it crackling flashes of snapping lightning and the rolling deep whamming bass of strong thunder!"

"God, I want to be chased into the house by raindrops the size of marbles and cold as Jell-O. I want our dog, Jennie, to go running into the darkest closet and

Mississippi sites chosen for film production

Sun Moon & Stars Entertainment and the Mississippi Film Office, Mississippi Department of Economic and Community Development, announce that production will begin in September on the feature film Big Bad Love in Holly Springs and Oxford. The project is based on stories by Oxford writer Larry Brown.

The film will mark the directorial debut of the actor Arliss Howard (Amistad, Full Metal Jacket, Old Men Don't Leave, Wilder Napalm). The screenplay is by Jim Howard. Big Bad Love is the story of a struggling writer, Leon Barlow, and the shambles of his life as he deals with an ex-wife, their kids, his mother, a growing mountain of rejection notices, true friends, and good whiskey.

Barlow will be played by Howard. His ex-wife, Marilyn, will be played by Debra Winger (Shadowlands, Wilder Napalm, Terms of Endearment, An Office and a Gentleman).

The film is being financed by London-based Sun Moon & Stars Entertainment and produced by Barry Navidi and Manfred Wilde.

Jacksonian Bob Johnston is the line producer. Paul Ryan (Thomas and the Magic Railroad, Box of Moonlight, Foxes) is the cinematographer.

Production and costume design will be by Patricia Norris (Production: Old Man, Lost Highway, Wild at Heart; costume: Sunset, 201,

State's agriculture goes on display for agents

By Bonnie Coblentz
MSU Ag Communications.
 Mississippi will entertain about 1,500 county agents and their families from across the nation in early August as it hosts the 85th annual National Association of County Agricultural Agents Professional Improvement Conference in Jackson.

The event is scheduled for Aug. 6 to 10 and will be headquartered at the Crowne Plaza Hotel.

A day of tours will take the group across Mississippi to see cultural attractions, as well as agricultural and manufacturing industries in the state.

Perry Lee is the Mississippi national meeting chair and Simpson County agent with Mississippi State University's Extension Service. He said the event offers the chance to highlight the state.

"This is a great opportunity for Mississippi and the Extension Service to let agents from across the United States get an in-depth look at the agricultural industry in Mississippi."

It also gives us the chance to show some of the cultural attractions we have in Mississippi," Lee said.

This is Mississippi's first time to host the annual meeting and professional improvement conference. Each state will be represented at the meeting.

Along with the professional improvement workshops, conference participants will have the opportunity to take part in poster sessions, view commercial exhibits, attend regional meetings and hear numerous speakers. A highlight will be the naming of the distinguished service award recipients.

Ed Williams, Oktibbeha County agent, said in addition to the educational sessions, Aug. 9 is set aside for tours. Agents and spouses will join one of 24 tours which will cover the state.

"The tours will give an idea of the diversity, size and scope of our agriculture," Williams said. "We will show everything from poultry to catfish and from forestry to the green industry, and will showcase MSU's Experiment Stations and the agri-industries in the state. Other tours for spouses and life members will look at cultural sites of interest."

Tours will range up to about 200 miles in each direction from Jackson and will cover the furniture industry, cattle, poultry and row crop production, the cotton industry, greenhouses and more. Several tours will visit the Delta, but most areas of the state will be visited.

Separate programs for spouses, life members and children will run concurrent with the annual meeting and professional improvement conference. Each has been designed to entertain guests and educate them on what Mississippi has to offer.

"We're really looking forward to the conference," Lee said. "It will be Extension's and Mississippi's time to get folks down from all around the country and see what we have to offer in technology and agriculture."

Extra caution urged as new school year begins and Labor Day celebrated

Adults and children are being urged to use extra caution by the Mississippi Division of Public Safety Planning as a new school year begins and Labor Day is celebrated.

"Motorists should be particularly careful in school zones and other areas where children are waiting for school buses," said Dr. Billy White Jr., the division's executive director.

"Children, in the excitement of beginning a new school year, sometimes are not as careful as they should be. Motorists should be ready to stop quickly if a child unexpectedly darts onto the street, highway or road. Driving slowly where children are present will help to make this possible," he noted.

White offered the following suggestions for parents:

- If children are walking to school, be sure they're taking the safest routes and know where to go if help is needed.
- Tell children never to accept a ride from a stranger.
- Try to watch your children while they're waiting for a school bus.
- Be sure children know their full names, addresses and phone numbers and how to call 911 and 0 in emergencies.
- At the end of a school day, never permit your children to be at a friend's house if no adults are present.
- Be sure your children check in with you when they return from school. If you're unable to be at home when they arrive, have them check in with a trusted neighbor.
- If children are home alone after school, tell them not to let anyone into the home, other than a trusted relative or neighbor, and to never let a caller at the door or on the phone know that no adult is at home.

For children riding school buses, White also had some suggestions:

- Stay on your side of the road, away from traffic, while waiting for a school bus.
- Wait for the bus to stop completely before moving toward it.
- Stay seated until the bus arrives at its destination.
- Don't do anything to distract the driver.
- "Sometimes, in celebrating the Labor Day weekend, the last major holiday period of the summer, we may be inclined to stretch the celebration as far as possible and overlook important safety steps," White noted. He offered the following suggestions:
 - Never consume alcoholic beverages before or during the operation of a motor vehicle. Even a small amount of alcohol can impair a driver to the point that he or she could cause a serious crash.
 - Be sure all vehicle occupants are using safety belts or child protective devices such as safety seats. In a crash, these devices can make the difference between life and death or between minor and serious injuries.
 - Have all children ride in the back seat. The front seat is a particularly dangerous place for children.
 - Allow sufficient time to drive within speed limits in reaching and returning from a Labor Day weekend trip.

Motorists, anxious to reach the destination as quickly as possible or trying to squeeze the last few hours into the celebration, tend to exceed speed limits. This could lead to a serious crash.

• If children are with you at the Labor Day weekend destination, be sure you don't let them out of your sight. Drowning, kidnapping or other tragedies can occur when children are not being supervised by an adult.

"If an emergency does occur when you're in a motor vehicle," White said, "help can be obtained from the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol by dialing *HP on a cellular phone."

"Beginning a school year or celebrating the Labor Day weekend can be happy times," he noted, "and extra caution can help to ensure that they are not marred by a tragedy."

our cat, Holly, to hide under the biggest bed.

"God, give us a one-incher, no, make that a two-incher. Make the rain lash at the windows looking for ways to get in and get us. Make the thunder be a boomer, make it make enough noise to show us that this time it is serious, and make the lightning that goes with it snap so hard and bright you can smell the ozone.

"God, make the rain stay for awhile, hitting the ground, burrowing in, soaking the earth. Make it wet things that dearly need wetting, things that have shriveled and, with parched leaves, have dumbly pleaded for water. Let this mass of rain give them that water.

"God, then let there be a long, steady fall of soft rain, let the rolls of thunder become subdued and the lightning become mere blinks in the sky. Let the big rain move on to the east to visit the people in Long Beach, Gulfport, Biloxi, and Ocean Springs. They need rain too.

"God, let this rain then fall softly for the rest of the afternoon and evening and on into the night, putting us to sleep with the promise of a damp, wet earth when we wake tomorrow.

"God, we thank you. Amen."

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

Working the grapevine

Claudia Coffey, a news reporter from Cox TV channel 8 dropped by with a camera man for an interview on our youth and the sudden surge in violence.

We went over the obvious: heroin king once more on the streets, black heroin making heroin as available as crack does cocaine, all the above pushed by dealers of every age, even some little old ladies.

"But why would the children even start on drugs?" she asked.

A handful of reasons pop into mind: the curious, daring aspect of experimentation, the seductive temptation of using a drug to cover up or neutralize a problem or some physical or emotional pain, federation with another person or group/gang to form a substitute family, or, worst of all, the seeding of addiction by older boys or men who give free drugs as bait.

The following morning my mind was blown when I read the Gospel at Mass. It was from Matthew 13: 35-43, the same reading I had recommended to Claudia Coffey during the interview.

"There is a wrestling going on out there," I observed, "between God, the sower of the seed of the Good News and the devil who sows weeds through worldly cares, riches and pleasures."

Unfortunately, most people, even good ones, find the path of the Good News much more difficult than the path of the weeds. It goes with that old saying, "Bad news travels fast."

But there is usually general disinterest in the seeds of good news, resulting in stingy broadcasting of the seeds.

"I heard it through the grapevine," unfortunately carries the usual connotation of bad or juicy, prurient news. When people work the grapevine, they almost invariably scan and scroll the scenes of life for the unsavory, the selfish, the immoral, the scandalous, the shocking and the tragic.

It is a most sobering thought which crosses our minds all too seldom that we are engaged in a fight to the finish over the good news and the bad news; that is, to life or death. The advantage here often goes to the devil whose very existence is questioned by people in all walks of life.

Yes, the devil is alive and well, even as described by Jesus.

in Matthew 13. The more the world doubts his presence and power, the more and the longer the world will continue to be dominated by his malevolence and hatred.

"Our struggle is not with flesh and blood but with the principalities, with the powers, with the world rulers of this present darkness, with the evil spirits in the heavens" (Ephesians 6:12).

"Our families have failed," I told Claudia, "by not handing down and sharing the good News. Instead of grounding our children in the basics of life at home, we have allowed the merchants of death in the streets to be their family, their educators, their counselors and their suppliers in life."

"In the late 1970's, 51 percent of black families were nuclear, whereas 56 percent were nuclear just 25 years before. Only God knows where they are now."

The accompanying tragedy is that most of the powerful extended family system has disintegrated, so that crumbling families have no safety net.

"Two generations ago, it was unthinkable that even one black child would be homeless, roaming the streets. If not a relative, someone in the extended family, even a neighbor, would take them in tow. Sadly, the last figure I heard was the 100,000 of them are now running wild in the streets."

The incredibly efficient extended family was a live enactment of John 15:5, "I am the vine; you are the branches." Its substantial demise must now be substituted for by private initiatives or God forbid, government agencies.

Fortunately, there is a goodly number of self-help groups around the nation which are going one-on-one with measurable success.

"Big Sisters," "Big Brothers," "Each One Save One" and similar organizations are based on the fact that there are overwhelmingly more good children than bad ones. This means, we adults outnumber the bad children so greatly that there are easily enough of us to go one-on-one many times over.

That is the true, the genuine working of the grapevine Jesus tells us about. Each branch is precious to him and us because we are members of his spiritual body. Our every thought, word and action effect wonders in others.

The "WORD" for the Week

Dennis J. Prutow, Box 303, Sterling, KS 67579

What is faith?

An old hymn intones, "Only believe. Only believe. All things are possible. Only believe." Wait. At the end of empty faith there are empty dreams. Faith that is worthy of the name always has an object. People believe in someone or something, even if it's themselves.

The faith of the Bible is never empty. It is a faith in Jesus Christ. It is belief in the truth that He is God who entered the world in human form.

It is belief in the certainty that He lived an earthly life of sinless perfection on behalf of those who believe in Him. It is belief in the fact that Jesus Christ was crucified. It is belief in the explanation that He died to pay for the sins of those who believe in Him. It is belief in the record that Jesus Christ was raised from the grave.

It is belief in the verity that He lived again to conquer death and the fear of death for all those who do believe in Him.

Not only so, it is belief in these truths: that Jesus Christ ascended bodily into heaven, that He sat down on the throne of God, that He pours out the Holy Spirit from heaven, and that He reigns as King to give confidence and purpose for living to those who believe in Him.

Child abuse center sponsors 8th So. Mississippi conference

The 8th annual South Mississippi Child Abuse Conference will be August 10 and 11 at the Isle of Capri Crowne Plaza Resort in Biloxi. This year's theme is, "In our Hands... Safe and Sound." The yearly convention is presented by the Gulfport-based South Mississippi Exchange Clubs Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse.

The conference will be a two day event, and will feature national, regional and local experts in the field of child abuse and neglect. Professionals from the medical community, law enforcement, therapists, social service agencies, prosecutors, youth court officials, victim/witness professionals, school counselors, teachers and students will all benefit from conference offerings.

This year's keynote speaker is Victor Veith, who will address specific strategies to enlist the entire community in the fight against child abuse with his address, entitled, "In our Hands... Building a Community Response to Child Abuse."

Friday's luncheon speaker will take a lighter tack during his time at the podium. Bob Mitchell, ACSW, will present "Making Ourselves Safe and Sound Through Laughter," which will help listeners establish humor as a valid coping tool.

A wide range of pertinent child abuse topics will be offered by a host of local, regional and national presenters.

Breakout session presentations will cover child abuse as a national epidemic, raising emotionally healthy children, juvenile offenders, therapy issues for sexually abused children, testifying in child abuse cases, and more.

The Mississippi Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers has approved the conference for 1.25 social work units. Continuing education units will also be available for a fee of $10. A limited number of seats are still available. Registration for the conference is $90 in advance, $100 at the door and $75 for students.

For information about the conference and to register, call the Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse at (228) 868-8686.

Enjoy What You Do

I recently saw a sign that read, "To love what you do, and feel that it matters, how could anything be more fun." A person who enjoys their work is usually more conscientious and will do a better job than someone who doesn't. Of course, almost any job may have some aspects to it that may not be completely rewarding or pleasurable, but that is something that we just have to accept and still try to do our best. In our Lord's life, there were also things that were unpleasant, and His attitude was, "Thy will be done." There is much written in the Bible about working, and everyone that is able should perform some worthwhile work. Not only is it good for our well-being, it contributes positively to our society. One's occupation can be looked on as a gift from God, and one who enjoys their work is blessed. The key to enjoying one's work is a positive attitude. We have to be careful of professing negativity with our lips, because eventually our mind starts believing it. Since a person usually has to work most of their lives, choosing to be content will make these years more enjoyable and favored by our Lord.

Work hard and do not be lazy.
Serve the Lord with a heart full of devotion.

ENTERTAINMENT

Tupelo to hold second Elvis Presley Festival

This is where it all began. This is the place to be Aug. 3-6 when the second Elvis Presley Festival kicks off in Tupelo.

What the Downtown Tupelo Main Street Association bills as a celebration of the music that influenced the early life of the king of rock 'n' roll promises an entertainment packed four-day weekend drawing people from all over the world to this north Mississippi birth place of Tupelo's most famous son.

Activities begin on Thursday evening at 6 p.m. with the sounds of Terry Mike Jeffrey and the Jordanaires accompanied by the Tupelo Symphony.

Also performing in the opening night concert are Brody Buster, 15-year-old blues harmonica player from Kansas, Tupelo native Paul Thorn and Sam Mosley, Tupelo's Grammy Award winning songwriter.

Tickets for the concert are $20 and may be purchased at the Bancorp South Center box office by calling (662) 841-6528.

Priority seating is available now through the festival office at 888-273-7798 or (662) 841-6598. Further information is also available by contacting the Tupelo Convention and Visitors Bureau at 1-800-533-0611 or at www.tupeloelvisfestival.com.

Friday's non-stop entertainment begins at 5 p.m. and includes Dr. Zarr's Amazing Funk Monster, The Tip Tops,

The Perry's and The Guns. Festival guests Saturday will see performances by Roomful of Blues, Delbert McClinton, Travis Ledoyt, Liz Courtney and the Midnight Ride, Big Fun and the Paul Rainey Band.

Perhaps the highlight of the musical extravaganza is Sunday's line up featuring Scotty Moore, Sunny Burgess and the Pacers, The Ronnie McDowell Show, D.J. Fontana and special performances by the Mississippi Mass Choir, The Boy's Choir of Tallahassee, the Landmarks Quartet and the Lane Chapel Quartet.

"We go from good ole rock 'n' roll to music of the fifties through the eighties, and a gospel show on Sunday," said Debbie Brangenberg, Downtown Main Street coordinator.

"We've expanded the activities so that we feel like we've got something for everyone to enjoy."

While the music is going on, there will be games for kids, a petting zoo, kids train rides, a Harley motorcycle rally, classic car show, face painting, Criterium bike races on Sunday, 5K run on Saturday at the Elvis Presley birthplace and the "Walk a Mile in My Shoes" benefit one-mile walk benefiting the 36 agencies of United Way of northeast Mississippi.

The new revue show Forever Plaid, has made its home at Grand Casino Biloxi. The four American-plaid guys, "The Four Plaids," make great harmony and an evening to remember. The show runs from now until Sept. 30 in the Biloxi Grand Theatre. Tickets are $9.95 per person. For show times and information, call 1-800-WIN-777, ext. 1988.

'Forever Plaid' now at Grand Casino Biloxi

Plaid people have come to the Biloxi Grand Theatre. Yes, that's right...the four American-plaid guys make a trip down from heaven to bring you the best in entertainment in the all new revue show at Grand Casino Biloxi, Forever Plaid.

This joyfully innocent musical has enjoyed rave reviews and sold-out performances around the world, and Grand Casino Biloxi will be no exception.

The show is set in the late 1950's and centers around the musical experiences of four young men named Sparky, Smudge, Jinx, and Frankie.

The four guys meet in their high school's audiovisual club. Discovering they share an affection for music, they get together and dream of becoming like their musical idols.

"The Four Plaids" land their first gig at the Airport Cocktail Bar, but when en route to the show, they are broadsided by a school bus and their careers and lives end at that moment.

The show begins with the Plaids coming back to Earth to fulfill their one dream - to perform for a live audience.

The cast does an amazing job reincarnating the innocence of the 50's with songs like "Three Coins in the Fountain," "Sixteen Tons," "Shangri-La," "Day-O," "Love is a Many Splendored Thing," "Heart & Soul," and "Catch a Falling Star."

The star performers are Adian Connolly as Frankie, Allen Snyder as Smudge, Greg Bock as Sparky, and Michael Maciaone as Jinx.

Touching, hilarious, and filled with the best music of the 50s, Forever Plaid will take audience members back to harmony and hi-fi stereotypes.

Showtimes are 8 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Tickets are $9.95. For more, call 1-800-WIN-2-WIN, ext. 2804.
